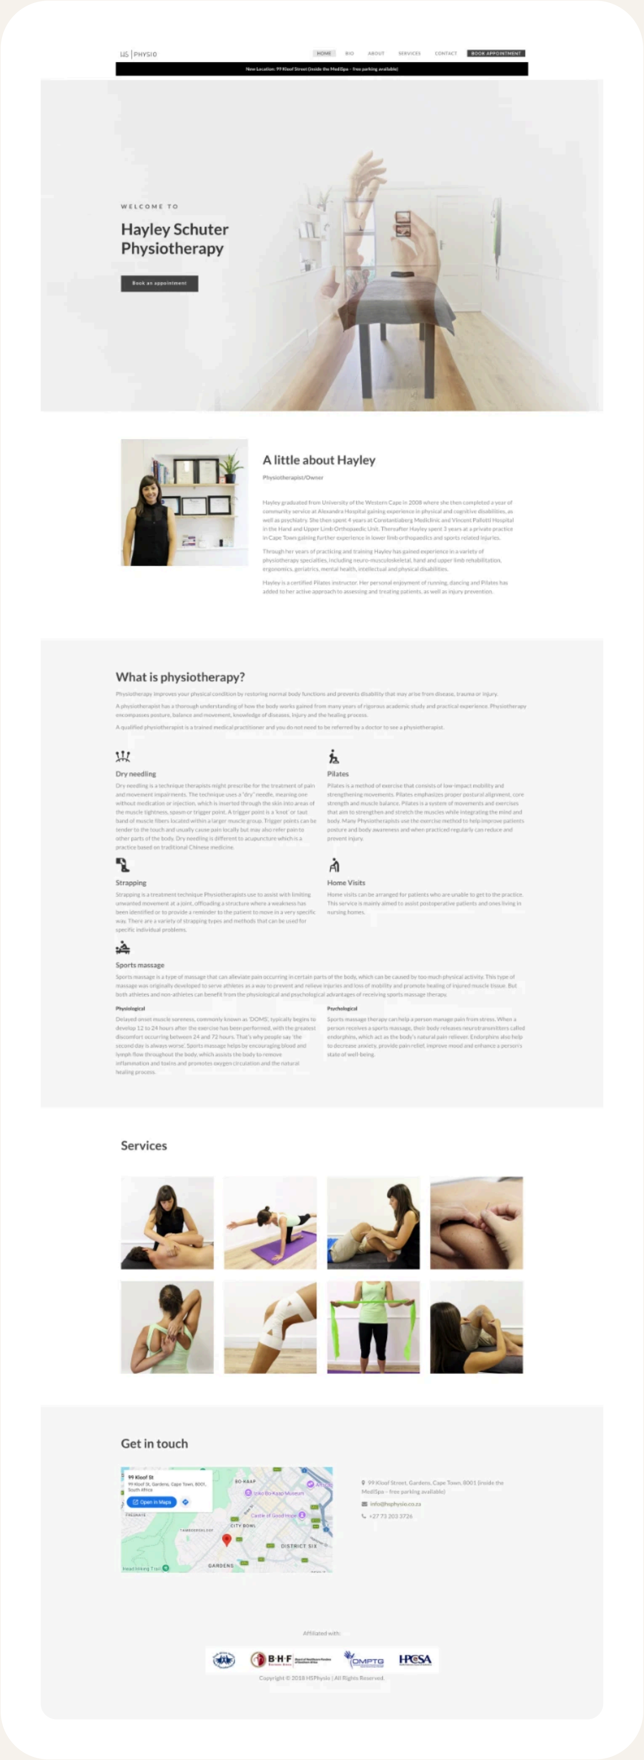
HS | PHYSIO

Your website refresh: what's changing and why

Same calm, minimal feel you like — but much clearer about what you do, why people should choose you, and how easy it is to book.

At a glance

TODAY



6 sections · no reviews · no hours or fees · contact form and phone only

NEW HOMEPAGE

Hero — says what you do in one line, with Book and Call buttons	Photo 1
Trust strip — since 2008, HPCSA, OMPTG, practice no., Pilates instructor
What I can help with — 4 special interests + common reasons people come in	Clearer
Body & mind — how stress shows up in the body, and how physio helps	New
How I treat — dry needling, strapping, massage, home visits, each with a photo	Photos 3–6
Not sure physio can help? — WhatsApp or call	New
Your first visit — 3 simple steps, so nervous first-timers know what to expect	New
About Hayley — warmer first-person bio, experience as an easy list	Photo 10
Why patients come back — your real 5-star Google reviews	New
Visit the practice — photos of the space, hours, fees & medical aid, parking, cancellations	Photos 7–9
Let's get you moving again — book online, WhatsApp, call, directions
Footer — contact, affiliation logos, practice number

7 key improvements

1

Today: "Welcome to…" over a faded, hard-to-read image

New: Says straight away what you do and who you help, with Book and Call buttons

People decide in seconds whether to stay — they need to know you can help them immediately.

2

Today: Services split between a long "What is physio" text and unlabelled photos

New: Clear special interests, common problems you treat, and labelled treatments

People search by their problem ("shoulder pain"), not treatment names — and it helps you show up on Google.

3

Today: Mental health not mentioned

New: A dedicated Body & mind section

Reaches people with stress-related pain who wouldn't think of physio — and sets you apart.

4

Today: No reviews; credentials hidden at the bottom

New: Your 5-star Google reviews, years in practice and registrations near the top

Patients trust other patients' words more than anything a practice says about itself.

5

Today: No hours, fees, medical aid or cancellation info

New: All practical info in one place, plus a "Your first visit" guide

Answers questions before they're asked — fewer calls and messages for you, less hesitation for patients.

6

Today: Contact details only at the very bottom

New: Book online, WhatsApp, call and directions throughout the page

The easier it is to book — especially on a phone — the more people actually do.

7

Today: Small grey text, older photos, 2018 copyright

New: Larger, clearer text, a calm green palette, new photos of you and the practice

Feels current and cared for — and is easier to read for every patient, including older ones.

Next steps

TODAY

Photo shoot

Treatment shots (no faces), the practice space and a portrait of you.

FROM YOU

A quick check

Your bio, the Body & mind wording, and the conditions you most want to be booked for.

THEN

Build & launch

Add the new photos, build the site, check it on phones, and go live.